

Arthur Machen was born in Wales some 150 years ago, and by the end of the nineteenth century had established himself as a leading exponent of the horror genre. His has been a lasting legacy, with later writers, such as H.P. Lovecraft, Clive Barker and Stephen King, readily acknowledging the debt they owe to Machen in the formulation of their own fiction. The Three Impostors is a chilling novel composed of a number of interwoven and sometimes purposely deceptive tales, related to two men, Dyson and Phillipps who - the reader gradually realizes - have stumbled upon a pagan cult practising human sacrifice and other monstrous rites. The novel here is presented in its complete form, with the addition of two rarely seen sections The Decorative Imagination and The Novel of the Iron Maid.
